CONTEST FOR LOCAL SLOGAN WILL CONTINUE ONE MORE WEEK

Long list submitted to Committee but None Strike Popular Favor

ALL INVITED TO PARTICIPATE

The Merchants' Committee, consisting of five of our most prominent business men, Messrs. Stevenson, Might, Doerzbacher, Teitelbaum, and Kimmins, met as judges to decide the slogan contest. The judges carefully went over all the slogans submitted and felt that none of them were wholly satisfactory, and that there ought to be a much larger response and more interest showns by the people of the community; and therefore that contest will be reopened, beginning Monday, May 23rd and continuing for the six days of that week. The contest will close on Tuesday, May 31st. Coupons will appear in the paper on each day this week and the twenty-five dollar prize will be awarded either from the list which has already been submitted or from the list that will be proposed. Any persons who have submitted slogans are eligible to submit still others, and not one is limited as to the number that can be submitted. All slogans must be submitted on newspaper coupons. The judges felt very enthusiastic over the way the public has been led to think about their own city but felt that the reopening of the slogan contest would stimulate further interest. This committee would like to recommend a slogan to the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce which may finally be adopted as a slogan for the Chamber of Commerce and the borough.

The Merchants Committee, after due deliberation, decided to publish the slogans already submitted. The winner may be chosen from either this list or the additional list that will be submitted later. The following list of slogans have been submitted to the committee:

Third Degree Exemplified by Knights of Columbus

The Third Degree of the Knights of Columbus was exemplified Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the Lyceum, under the auspices of Monessen Council No. 934, Donora Council No. 1942 and Charleroi Council No. 950, at which time sixty-two candidates were invested with the rights and privileges of this degree. Leo. G. Griffith, District Deputy for the Third District of Pennsylvania, was in charge of the work, and gave the exemplification in a masterly manner. Visitors were present from many of the surrounding towns, and the occasion was one of the most successful ever held by the local Councils.

After the work of the degree had been concluded members of the organization were guests at a banquet at 6 o'clock, which served as a fitting climax to an afternoon and evening of most intense interest to the Knights. At the banquet Tom P. Sloan was toastmaster, and after the delightful menu, which had been prepared by the ladies of St. Jerome's congregation, a program of speaking was the order of the evening. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. Father S. Walsh, which was followed by the introductory given by J. E. Smith, Grand Knight of Charleroi Council, who introduced the toastmaster of the evening. He in turn presented in a most pleasing manner W. F. McVicker, district deputy of the 28th district, who spoke on "Our District;" P. J. McArdle, of Pittsburg, who made a splendid address; Dennis Harris of Pittsburg; Leo G. Griffith, also of Pittsburg, whose topic was "Our Responsibilities;" remarks by Rev. Father Walsh, a short address by Jos. Weldon of Pittsburg; H. A. Smith, Grand Knight of Monessen Council, who spoke on "The Candidates;" John McGlade, of Charleroi Council, whose topic was "Chivalry," and T. H. Carde, Grand Knight of Donora Council, who spoke on the "K. of C."

In response during the banquet were popular and rousing songs, in which all the banqueters took part and which proved to be a very delightful diversion.

STRONG SERMON TO HIGH GRADUATES

The Rev. F. C. Lake, pastor of the First Christian Church, preached a strong sermon at the baccalaureate exercises of the Class of '21, held in the high school auditorium, last evening. Speaking on the subject, "A Full Normal Development," based on the words of St. Luke, as found in the fifty-second verse of the second chapter, the reverend gentleman gave the members of the graduating class some very valuable advice, which if observed, will materially aid in their further development. Despite the warm weather which prevailed a large audience was present, and throughout the speaker's discourse, he was given an attentive hearing. The Revs. J. R. Burson, J. Walter Bressler, H. G. Woodrow and E. H. Greenlee each had a part in the exercises. Rev. R. G. Shields was unable to be present due to indisposition, and the work allotted him was assumed by the Rev. Mr. Greenlee. Music was furnished by a choir of twenty-four voices recruited from the different churches, and its work was excellent. The singing of Handel's immortal "Hallelujah Chorus," was a rare treat, the congregation standing during the rendering, in accordance with a long established custom. The choir's second number, which was also very well sung, was Schnecker's "Art Thou Weary," the incidental solo work being creditably done by Mrs. I. T. Daniel, soprano; Orman Morgan, tenor and Curtis Collins, baritone. Prof. I. T. Daniel directed and Mrs. May Barth Kinder's splendid work as accompanist proved a source of much strength to the singers. The service, in its entirety, was impressive and much enjoyed by all.

Mrs. F. Cruce and Miss Rosa Riile of New Kensington, are spending a few days with their aunt Mrs. Constana.

YOUNG FOLKS HAD AN ENJOYABLE TIME

One of the pleasurable annual conventions in the life of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church is the meeting of "The Light Bearers," the youngest missionary society in connection with the church. Last Saturday afternoon, in the Sunday school room of the church, that society met and gave their program to a room full of listeners, who thoroughly enjoyed their presentation. The room was elaborately decorated for the occasion. The stage was banked with ferns and roses, and the exercises in various colored costumes blended with the coloring of the flowers and made a pleasing effect.

The president of the missionary society, Mrs. Edwin McKay, had charge of the program and introduced Mrs. Ellis Allman, who conducted devotional exercises, and was followed by Mrs. Lynn Robertson and Mrs. George South, who had charge of the children's exercises.

The names on the roll total 180 and there were present on Saturday 149 children. Miss Myrtle Anderson was the pianist, and the musical numbers contributed to the pleasure of the occasion.

Tables were set in the primary room and the graduates were shown special honors and received their diplomas. The following received credentials for "The King's Messengers," the next Missionary Society above them:—Virginia Lively, Dorothy Johns, Charles Fellabaum, Louise McKay, Violette Metz, Anna Lois Miksch, Gordon Knight, Maria Horner, Alice McKean, Jean Barger, Elsie Edelman, Laura Maxine Allen, Charles Darby, John Parkinson, Emily Newcomer and Virginia Robertson.

PLANS ARE COMPLETED FOR OBSERVANCE OF MEMORIAL DAY

Committee has made all the Necessary Arrangements ---Will Announce Soon

ALL SERVICE MEN ARE INVITED

The Memorial Day committee composed of former service men, augmented by a number of women, held a meeting Friday evening last at the borough building, at which time a complete and definite program for the Memorial Day exercises to be held in Charleroi were completed.

Edwin W. Patton was chosen chairman of the general committee, with the following special committees to look after details:

Executive—H. J. Repman, chairman; J. P. Lauderbaugh, L. Brown, Thomas L. Lee, Minnie B. Richardson and Roy I. Carson.

Decorating—Edwin McKay, chairman; Jacob Wise, R. Pardiney, Chas. Polloch, J. J. Reardon, and Minnie B. Richardson.

Congressman Henry W. Temple has been invited, and has accepted an invitation to make the Memorial address at a time to be announced later. The singing will be in charge of Prof. I. T. Daniel, who will conduct a chorus of about 300 children's voices, and a band has been secured to furnish music for the occasion.

The Committee has ordered poppies to be given to each one participating in the parade. The proceeds of the sale of these poppies will go to the relief of soldiers' widows and orphans in France.

The Burgess, members of Council, members of the School Board, firemen, members of the Board of Health, Boy Scouts, members of the D. A. R. and the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars have been invited to assist in the parade and exercises.

Owing to the time that has elapsed since Armistice Day and the interest aroused on Memorial Day, the committee is anxious that all former service men will come out on this special occasion, and assist in these exercises in commemoration of their deceased comrades.

A complete program of the exercises, together with the time at which event will take place, will be published later.

Owing to the arrangements made with Congressman Temple it will be necessary that the speaking be held before noon, in order that he can fill a prior engagement made with Monongahela to make the dedicatory address in connection with the unveiling of their soldiers' memorial day on that day.

A party of Charleroi Knights Templar, composed of James Stevenson, Lawrence B. Frye, John H. Frye, Carl M. Wertz, C. S. McKean and Charles Steele left Charleroi early Sunday morning for Philadelphia, where they will attend the annual conclave of Knights Templar for Pennsylvania. The trip to the eastern city was made by auto.

MILK PEDDLER WAS GATHERING GARBAGE

A milk peddler from Carroll township, was intercepted by Health Officer Darby this morning in the vicinity of Ninth street, when it was found that the man was peddling milk, and at the same time gathering garbage, the same wagon being used for both purposes. The peddler was ordered to quit business in Charleroi until such time as this wagon was properly marked, and that the gathering of garbage in his wagon must cease at once.

ALMA MATER SONG OF 1921 CLASS

At Friday evening's Class Night exercises, the Class of '21 "Alma Mater Song," the words of which were written by Miss Myra A. Johns, teacher of English in the local high school, and set to music by Prof. I. T. Daniel, supervisor of music, was given. The words are as follows:

On Charleroi's hills, how firm she stands,
Our utmost fealty who commands!
The school we serve, with heart and hand.
Hail, alma mater hail!

We leave thee, but we lose thee never
No earthly pow'r these links can sever.
Enshrin'd within our hearts for ever,
Hail, alma mater hail!

United, firm, 'neath brown and gold.
Into the world we go, and bold,
We'll meet its problems manifold,
Hail, alma mater hail!

Thy banner flying still in front
Thy spirit in us, to confront
Our nation's life, and bear its brunt,
Hail, alma mater hail!

From struggles past, thy red and black,
In time of perils turned not back;
We pass on in thy shining track.
Hail, alma mater hail!

Oh! may thy bosom swell with pride,
As upward, aye, and side by side.
We nobly tread life's ways untried
Hail, alma mater hail!

BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

All business and financial authorities agree that better days are ahead for the whole country. William A. Law, president of the First National Bank of Philadelphia, who is one of the clear thinkers in this period, says there are many problems to solve, but intimates that a quick settlement of the Germany indemnity dispute will result in much better business conditions in the United States and Europe. The laborer the country over is giving more for what he gets.

As compared with a year ago increased efficiency amounts to much, and according to Mr. Law shows that war time production was woefully inefficient. It is pointed out that there will be plenty of labor for production and since the crop outlook is excellent this will insure lower food prices at a time when it is all things essential to reduce living expenses.

Labor, it is pointed out, must contribute its share to the general readjustment which will be of service to all members of the community. One observer discussing this feature of the situation, says that all citizens are workers in the best sense and that there has never been greater willingness manifested by managers, business men, and others interested to co-operate unselfishly in rehabilitating crippled concerns.

A recent bulletin on the business and financial outlook, discussing the gradual resumption of Normal conditions, observes that there are signs that the people are profiting from the mistakes of the past and getting back to a commonsense basis of living and doing business.

COULDN'T BRIBE SCHWAB

It has just come to light that during the World War Charles M. Schwab spurned a bribe of $100,000,000 "for himself" from the German government if he would break the contracts made by the Bethelhem Steel Corporation with Lord Kitchener to supply the British navy with submarines. The facts became known when the New York chamber of commerce presented Mr. Schwab a bronze tablet in recognition of his great services to his country during our participation on the war. It appears that after the personal bribe was indignantly rejected the German agents offered the same amount for the Bethlehem works and were again refused. Hearing of the German effort to get control, the British governmetn offered $150,000,000 for the Bethlehem works, a sum "about five times their value." Then Mr. Schwab is once more refusing to sell, disgusted the German agents and pleased the English by declaring that "the British empire and the German empire together did not have enough money to make him break faith with Lord Kitchener."

This occurred when the United States was still neutral, and Mr. Schwab had the right to furnish any belligerent with munitions, but to have left the British in the lurch for the sake of the Germans would have violated the spirit of neutrality as well as broken faith in the matter of a business contract. Charles M. Schwab was born in Pennsylvania and began life as a poor boy. Whether his parents were Pennsylvania "Dutch" of long standing or were German born is not stated. If they were the latter, this incident, apart from Mr. Schwab's great services after he entered the war, would reveal him as a model German-American or citizen of German descent. An inherited sympathy for the German people would make this act and his general war career all the more creditable. The miscalculating German government found the great iron-master a man of honor as well as a true American.

A BUSY SOLON

At the earnest solicitation of Chairman Francis E. Warren of the Senate Appropriations Committee, Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas has consented to remain at the head of the sub-committee dealing with appropriations for the District of Columbia. Some days ago Mr. Curtis sent a letter to Senator Warren recounting his many duties and expressing his opinion that he would not be able to give the time to District appropriations that they demand. Mr. Warren, however, told the Kansas Senator that he had met with signal success in framing the District budget and insisted that he remain in charge of that bill. Mr. Curtis is one of the busiest men in the Senate. In addition to being the Republican "whip," which occupies a great deal of his time, he is a member of the Finance Committee charged with rewriting our tariff and internal revenue laws, chairman of the Indian Affairs Committee and in charge of the annual Indian Appropriation Bill and a member of the Committees on Rules and on Public Buildings and Grounds.

IMMIGRATION BILL IS NOW A LAW

President Harding on Thursday signed the immigration bill recently passed by Congress. It restricts immigration from all lands to 3 per cent of the number of the various nationalities already in the United States. The bill will be in effect for one year.

The Viking Club has issued invitations for a dance to be given at Eldora Park, Friday evening, May 27. Music will be furnished by Parker's Secor orchestra of Columbus, Ohio. If the weather is favorable the outing is expected to be one of the most enjoyable events of the season.

Smollett's Literary Position.

Certainly the least read of the three great novelists of the 1740's Smollett yet holds a unique position as the earliest Scotsman to take his place in Modern English literature. Setting aside the poets of the schools of Chaucer and Skelton, we find the great Montrose following in the footsteps of the English lyrists, "Bluidy" Mackenzie, writing a romance of the school of Scudery, and Islandists such as Semple, Hamilton of Bangour and Allan Ramsay making their contributions to the body of Scottish folk verse, but it was not till Smollett came into the field with "Roderick Random" that a Scotsman filled any conspicuous place in English literature. Is that at first anonymous book, with all its faults, remarks a writer in the Christian Science Monitor, let forth such as a classic, and the best proof of its power is that it was accepted, by as good a judge as Lady Mary Worthley Montague, to Henry Fielding.

Burroughs Saw Everything.

A lawyer once sent John Burroughs an egg shell of the quail to testify that the mother bird, nor the young, had broken the shell, since the edges were bent in. But the observer was hasty, had not considered the effect of the shrinking of the skin lining the shell; he had failed to sift all the evidence, had not cross-questioned the facts, had not applied legal methods. Legal methods, medical methods, scholarly methods—they are all, like the critical or scientific method, always a rare possession, which John Burroughs had in high degree. As he sauntered across the open fields and through the woods, stopping here and there to listen more acutely or see more accurately, there was little in the drama of nature that escaped his perspicuous perception.—The New Republic.

Fine Body of Men.

Col. John S. Ford, himself a ranger, soldier and newspaper man, summed up their qualities in these words: "The Texas Ranger can ride like a Mexican, trail like an Indian, shoot like a Tennesseean and fight like a very devil." Above all, these frontiersmen were the embodiment of individualism. It was their outstanding trait, their chief characteristic. They were self-reliant and resourceful, frequently extricating themselves from difficulties, not by fighting, but by quick thinking. Only one thing in warfare they had forgotten in their long struggle with a dual foe, and that was to surrender. They gave quarter—sometimes—but never asked and never expected it.

Howe's Valuable Dream.

Howe, the inventor of the sewing machine, when thinking out ideas stuck fast at the needle. He could not imagine a needle except with its eye at the heel, and it would not work. He might have failed altogether if he had not dreamt that he was making a machine for the king of a tribe of savages. In his dream the king gave him twenty-four hours to complete his task. The penalty was death. He worked and puzzled, but in vain, and he was led to the place of execution by warriors bearing spears pierced near the head. Instantly Howe saw how he could complete his invention and awoke.

Quebec of Today.

No city in the New world has a more romantic history than famous old Quebec founded by Samuel de Champlain in 1608. Its rise marked the beginning of the history of Canada, its capture by Wolfe the end of the French regime. Here are buildings dating from Champlain himself. The basilica which seats 4,000 people was begun in 1647, finished in 1665 one of the most touching works of faith in our whole history, considering the numbers and wealth of the inhabitants. It is still an old French town in many respects, although in other respects a bustling Canadian city.

There are many men with good thoughts but poor command of language. They seldom achieve success or distinction. There are many with puny thoughts but good language. They often rise to the lower levels of success, but seldom stay there for long. Their talents are essentially earthbound. Then there are a few who have both thought and language: those who can harness the expressive to the creative. When they speak the world listens. When they write the world thinks.

Where It Is Quiet.

At the head of a small valley where the elevation is nearly 9,000 feet and where the Ruby mountains tower over the stretches of the Humboldt National forest, are Robinson and Soldier lakes. Like many beautiful recreation grounds in national forests, this country has no national renown, says the American Forestry magazine. But for one who wishes to get away from the mad rush of modern life in the city or town the place is ideal.

How a Child Measures Heat.

It was one of the first spring days and little Elizabeth, who had been playing with some neighbor children, rushed into the house and throwing herself across her mother's lap exclaimed: "Oh, mamma, take off some of my clothes! I'm a whole petticoat too warm!"

The Easiest.

In trying to decide what is easiest in this world we have come to the conclusion it is telling some other fellow not to worry.—Atchison Globe.

Current Knowledge.

Students repeatedly excuse their deficiency in current knowledge by the statement: "Our college work keeps us so busy that we have no time to read the newspapers and magazines." Which naturally suggests a greater emphasis on the college responsibility of keeping the student interest in such things of information thoroughly aroused. These older boys and girls are for the most part quite as human as the rest of us, and so manage to give attention enough to matters of primary interest. Students are being taught to answer quite glibly academic questions of a decidedly erudite character, while at the same time they are losing contact with the vital world about them. Seriously, we ought to know to what an extent this condition exists, and meet the issue surely and evidently.—Paul V. West in the Atlantic Monthly.

A Ball of Water.

A soap bubble is merely a hollow ball of water containing air. The soap, partly dissolved, forms a very thin film or skin over the air which is endeavoring to force its way through it. This air exerts an equal pressure in all directions, and forces the soap film out at an equal distance from the center of the compressed air thus forming a perfect sphere or ball. After the bubble has been floating about for a few moments, the water drips toward the bottom of the ball and collects there in drops. The weight of these drops pulls the bubble out of shape and increases the pressure of the air inside to such an extent that it breaks through the film and the bubble bursts.

Quite Obvious.

The class of backward children was being taught mental association of related objects. The teacher distributed a number of pictures and an equal number of titles for the pictures. When they had arranged the pictures and titles to their own satisfaction, she passed down the aisles and viewed the results. One little chap had put the title "Nutting" under a picture showing a naked baby in a bath tub enjoying the warm water. The teacher failed to see any connection, but when the lad was questioned concerning his disposition of titles, he answered, "Why, ma'am, the baby has nutting on."—Columbus Dispatch.

Little-Known Spot.

A few miles west from the east branch of the Rossland is the West Rossland canyon. A good trail connects the two and a visit of any time to this area will be in the nature of a camp trip, says the American Forestry Magazine in an article on "The Land of the Beartooth." A passable wagon road reaches Emerald lake on West Rossland. It is a lake which deserves to be popular for here nature made a place which is naturally attractive. The scenic values are excellent, the fishing is good, and around the lake limeflows mountain huckleberries grow in profusion.

Must Undergo Test.

It doesn't take much to set us back from our acquired character to our original nature. Sometimes a long spell of sickness discovers to us what we really are, as compared with the fine creature we like to pretend we are. Starvation will bring old friends to the point of clutching each others' throats, and an excess of bodily fatigue may curdle the sweetest temper. Let us not hear that any human being has an angel character till he has been under some excruciating trial and has emerged with honor from the ordeal.—Exchange.

Scored on Ingersoll.

Robert G. Ingersoll had social qualities which won him many friends, who, however, could not but deeply regret his published opinions. One day while in Beecher's study he saw a globe which greatly pleased his fancy. On its surface were raised figures of the heavenly bodies in very delicate workmanship. "I admire that," said Ingersoll, "who made it?" "Who made it, do you ask, colonel?" repeated Beecher. "Who made this globe? Why, nobody, of course—it just happened."—Boston Transcript.

The best and most hopeful feature in any people is undoubtedly the instinct that leads them to the country to take root there, and not that which sends them flocking to the town and its distractions. The lighter the snow the more it drifts; and the more frivolous the people, the more they are blown, by one wind or another into towns and cities.—John Burroughs.

Canada's First Farmer.

It was a Frenchman and not an Irishman who was Canada's first farmer. His name was Louis Hebert. He landed at Quebec in 1617 with his wife and children, and at once started to clear and cultivate the soil on what is now the site of the cathedral at Quebec, the seminary, and part of the Upper Town.

Magicians Not Wanted.

"Knowledge is power," said the newly-made philosopher. "Depends on how you use it," rejoined Cactus Jim. "There's a feller in Crimson Gulch who is mighty lonesome because he got a reputation for knowin' how to stack the cards."

Financial.

"Edith is one of those girls whose interest in a man is governed by his bankbook." "I see—the greater the pull the greater the interest."—Oil News.

Steals Another Nest.

There are few birds that lay their eggs in the nests of other birds, the latter being of entirely different species or even families, says the American Forestry Magazine. The nestlings of such species are reared by their foster parents. The cuckoos of the old world have this habit; while with us it is the cow-bird which is the guilty one. In either case only a single egg is deposited, and the young cuckoo, as it grows, manages to push the rightful occupants of the nest, being fed by their parents until it is ready to shift for itself.

Wood vs. Heat.

It is not generally realized that wood is a splendid nonconductor of heat, says the American Forestry Magazine of Washington. Tests have been made showing the properly built wood house is exceptionally warm in winter and cool in summer, and that a wood roof is superior in this respect to slate or any other material except tile. As a fire proof, the slate roof has an advantage over slate and tile in that it is light and does not require such heavy or expensive support.

The oldest and best known oil fields near Baku are now on a bare, desert-like plateau a hundred feet or more above the Caspian sea. The oil sands are found at various depths. The pools are believed to be in lens-shaped pockets largely independent of each other. Gas pressure in many cases is very high. As a result gushers of great initial production are struck, but unlike the Mexican wells, the production is not long-lived. It is believed, however, that the oil pockets are numerous and that many are untapped.

Jade Butterfly Lucky.

Fashioned in the form of a butterfly, jade acquires a special significance in China, because of a legend which relates that a youth in eager pursuit of a many-hued butterfly made his way into the garden of a rich mandarin. Instead of being punished for his trespass, the youth's unceremonious visit led to his marriage with the mandarin's daughter. Hence the figure of a butterfly is a symbol of successful love, and Chinese bridegrooms are wont to present jade butterflies to their fiancees.

WILL OPEN SHOPS IF MEN YIELD OVERTIME

The Erie Railroad employes of Meadville are considering a proposition of the company to accept 10 hours' pay for 10 hours' work instead of 11 hours' pay for 10 hour's work, and several men not to be used on a job where one formerly did the work. Heretofore the men have received time and a half for the first two hours' work beyond the eight-hour period and, if this overtime pay can be done away with, the company announces it is willing to furnish full time for all of the men, numbering about 1,200 on straight 10 hours' pay for 10 hours' work. The shops at Meadville have been closed for several weeks.

The fines for conviction of furnishing by gift, sale or otherwise of cigarets to minors on the first offense after trial before an alderman or magistrate is to be $25, or imprisonment not exceeding 30 days; second offense, fine of $100, and for third offense, guilty party shal lbe held for court trial. The sentence of the court can be for a fine of not less than $100 or more than $300, or imprisonment not to exceed one year, or both.

Violations are punishable with a fine of $25, with each separate shot fired constituting a separate offense. Rifle ranges and shooting ranges properly guarded are exempted.

ROME TAKES BACK ITS OWN

Demolition of Pretentious German Embassy in Eternal City Has a Deep Significance.

Today on the Capitoline, the smallest topographically, but historically the most important of the famous seven hills of Rome, there is the sound of hammering, the fall of masonry. Here, for many centuries, has centered the religious and political activity of the Roman empire, and here in the last half century Germany had established herself imperially, residentially. In the Palazzo Caffarelli, built near the site of the great temple of Jupiter, consecrated in B. C. 509, was the German embassy, with the throne of the emperor of Germany. Near at hand was the German Archaeological institute, within its garden the famous Tarpeian rock, to be visited of recent years only by obtaining the key of the gate from the German authorities. On the piazza, Romulus is said to have founded his asylum and here in the centuries before the Christian era, as in the middle ages, Rome had the seat of her government. It was here that from house to house, from terrace to terrace, Germany up to the year 1914 was steadily spreading her domains. The statue of Marcus Aurelius by Michael Angelo was in the piazza of the Capitoline, so also were those of Constantine and his son, but there was room for others. Today, however, the Palazzo Caffarelli with its sixteenth century architectural beauties and its Teutonic decorations, is being razed from the capital in carts. The authorities have decided that this seventh hill of Rome belongs to the past of Italy and they seek beneath the floors of the German embassy further foundations of the great temple of Jupiter built by Tarquin the superb, last other last of the kings.

LANGUAGE ENRICHED BY WAR

English Newspaper Comments on Addition of American Slang to the Ordinary Vocabulary.

An enterprising publishing firm has issued a post-war English dictionary which professes to contain words that came into use during the war. It might have saved some perplexity on the part of the Willesden magistrate who was told by a witness last week that a man in the case was "all pucker up," and that a certain turn of events "put the kybosh on him." "Posher up" recalls dreadful things to the demobilized man for how many weary hours has he not spent in "poshing up" for parades and inspections? To "posh up" means, of course, to make oneself look smart. In civilian life it means speckless polished boots, starched collar, neatly pressed trousers, carefully brushed hair, and a shining morning face. In the army it means buckles, buttons and cap badge polished to distraction, leather equipment with a supergloss, and well "blancoed" haversack and valise (khaki color, of course). And for the man "warned for guard" behind the lines or in camp at home there was always the hope that by "poshing up" to the nth degree he might escape duty, the prize awarded by the inspecting officer to the smartest man paraded. As for "kybosh," the word is familiar enough to the music-hall public. The extinguisher puts the "kybosh" on the candle, and the allies, in the words of a war-time song, "put the kybosh on the kaiser."—Manchester Guardian.

The Ambidextrous.

The art of ambidexterity, or the usage of both hands, is an extremely practical accomplishment, and one involving not only mechanical skill, but a certain amount of will and brain power.

A society for the cultivation of the left hand was started some time ago in London, but the scheme never had sufficient backing to flourish. Now the French Academy of Medicine is advocating that school children be taught to write with the left hand as well as the right.

One curious point concerns the cult of the left hand, an eminent physician having stated that it tends eventually to increase lunacy. The notion has, however, been contested by other medical men, and the head master of Eton suggests that the further usage of the left hand develops certain organs of the brain which otherwise lie dormant.

A secret emulsion, invented by a Russian professor, which, it is asserted, will make color photography possible for everybody, is about to be introduced into this country, says the London Times. The problem of making a process capable of snapshot speed as time work is claimed to have overcome, and the exposure is said to be as with the ordinary [illegible] during the operation of enlarging and work also [illegible] and plates will be [illegible] of slowly, and the cost [illegible] which is expected to be [illegible] than [illegible] black and white type.

Just the Man!

[illegible] at a dance one evening I [illegible] acquaintance of a young [illegible] asked to take me home. [illegible] talking about different things, [illegible] upon the subject of religion. [illegible] told me he was quite a church [illegible] and had attended church regularly. My folks being rather religious themselves, I said, without thinking: "You are just the kind of a son-in-law my people are looking for." Then I woke up and tried to square myself.—Exchange.

ROOTED DISLIKE FOR JAPS

Chinese Look With Suspicious Eyes on Actions of the Subjects of the Mikado.

It was in the quaint, terraced city of Feenow, China. The bearers of my sedan chair pointed out to me a fine gray building against the hillside and exhausted their collective store of English trying to tell me what it was.

"Japanese hospital," said one, with a condescending air, as if he could say more if he would.

"To cure sick Japanese?" I asked, wondering whether there was a sufficiently large patronage to support an institution of such size.

It took some time for this question to percolate through their heads. When at last it did so, there was more open mirth in their answers than mere state visits of rulers would warrant.

"Japanese make Chinese well. Japanese say 'Chinese ruin—him very sick; must make well.'"

There was particulate sarcasm in their tones. At last one of them found the English he was after, and came out with "Japanese no love Chinese, Chinese love Japanese." "Then why make Chinese well?"

It seems that the Japanese were bent on trying to realize the American platitudes, represented in the missions and by the Rockefeller Foundation, were creating good will for the United States. So they, too, decided to become philanthropists, and soon the Japanese hospitals for the Chinese were the result. The Chinese, however, still distrust the motive. They cannot believe that it lies in a mere unselfishness or Christian propaganda. They tell tales about much sin done concealed in the hospitals and soldiers who report by night. I never heard these stories substantiated, but I did meet a sincerely devout young surgeon and a Japanese nurse with the sweetest face in the world.—Marjorie Barstow in World Outlook.

WORE OLD DUTCH HEADGEAR

Rochester Woman Excited Comment by Appearing in Court With Picturesque Adornment.

The costume of Mrs. Julia Vos in a Rochester court excited much attention. Mrs. Vos is the grandmother of two children over whom there was litigation after the parting of their parents. The aged woman is a native of Friesland, Holland.

She appeared in court with an old Dutch headgear that would have delighted the heart of the painter Van Dyk. On the sides of her coiffeur were two thin gold plates bound tightly to her head which kept her hair pressed close above her ears. The plates are slightly concave, of the finest old burnished gold and fitted the contour of her head. Over the gold plates was an old Friesland lace bonnet, ivory colored from age, a treasure of her maiden days. The little frilled lace visor in front of the bonnet was a marvel of the lace maker's art, and a 6-inch frill made of some stiffened material like malines net fanned out behind her neck and over her shoulders like a ruffle of Sir Walter Raleigh. In a quaint observance of the customs of the land of her adoption Mrs. Vos had surmounted her artistic headgear with a flagrantly black high-cocked bonnet. The old world touched the new on Mrs. Vos' head, with the artistic odds greatly against the new.

Search for Finer Wool.

The possibility of developing new sources of fine wool has been suggested. Referring in Nature to a new search for the golden fleece, Prof. J. C. Ewart of the University of Edinburgh states that the first domesticated sheep in Europe were undoubtedly introduced about 7000 B. C., and that nearly pure descendants of this ancient Neolithic breed—a wild, Ovis vignei—still survive on the small uninhabited island of Soay (Sheep island), near St. Kilda. Crosses between Soay and Southdown sheep yield excellent mutton, with wool of remarkable strength and quality; and the late discoveries indicate that crosses of the wild with other wild types may yield still finer and more beautiful wool. These discoveries include that of wool forming the inner coat of several of the wild sheep of Asia. This wool is longer than that of the Soay sheep, and decidedly finer than and quite as white as superfine Australian merino, regarded as the finest and whitest wool in the world.

Two kinds of thunderstorms are generally recognized—one due to heat and usually local, and the other accompanying the squalls forming in the southern sectors of low pressure areas. A third type, "storms of cold," has been lately added by a French meteorologist. It occurs as cold air travels southward into a region of high temperature and southerly upper winds. The clouds forming the southern front of the cold wave develop thunderstorms which are carried northward by the upper south wind, like traveling backward through the zone of cold air.

Pope Donates to S. P. C. A.

Pope Benedict has given a donation of 1000 francs to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, which has been doing magnificent work in Italy for years past under English direction, and mainly supported by English and American subscriptions, although recently receiving also considerable Italian support.—Catholic Columbian.

MARCH	61,886		87,221
Total Production	127,074	Total Retail Sales	208,032

showing that actual sales for the first three months of 1921 exceeded production by 80,958 Ford cars and Trucks!

April requisitions already specify 107,719 additional cars and trucks and the estimated April output of the factory and assembling plants combined calls for only 90,000!

These facts clearly show that the demand for Ford products is growing much faster than manufacturing facilities to produce and were it not for the dealers' limited stocks, which are now being rapidly depleted, many more customers would have been compelled to wait for their cars. It will be only a matter of weeks, therefore, until a big surplus of orders will prevent anything like prompt deliveries.

If you would be sure of having your Ford car or truck when you want it, you should place your order now. Don't delay. Phone us or drop us a card.
